

Tell Myself Goodbye

Dead Poetic

These words roll of my tongue like second nature
 But Im far from my womb, and you know Im far from you
 So when do I come back to you?
 Was this already written or have I fallen so far?I cant tell the light from the dark
 I cant tell the light from the darkI thought you had me forever
 But Im sure you thought the same about me
 And Im sorry, so sorrySorry, so sorry
 Sorry, so sorry
 Sorry, so sorryThese dreams run through my head
 That frolic through some tube of my brain
 Im going insane, Ive forgotten my name
 So Ill use yours, like a dropped friend I wish I never left
 I wish I never left you, I wish I never left youI cant tell the light from the dark
 I cant tell the light from the darkI thought you had me forever
 But Im sure you thought the same about me
 And Im sorry, so sorrySorry, so sorry
 Sorry, so sorry
 Sorry, so sorryWinters come early this year
 Like a bird in the rain, Ive tortured my everything
 Winters come early this year
 Like a bird in the rain, Ive tortured my everythingWinters come early this year
 Like a bird in the rain, Ive tortured my everything
 Winters come early this year
 Like a bird in the rain, Ive tortured my everythingWinters come early this year
 Like a bird in the rain, Ive tortured my everything
 Winters come early this year
 Like a bird in the rain, Ive tortured my everythingThe rain falls, and I never meant to leave you standing
 The rain falls, and I never meant to leave you standing
 The rain falls, and I never meant to leave you standing
 The rain falls, and I never meant to leave you standingThe rain falls, and I never meant to leave you standing
 The rain falls, and I never meant to leave you standing
 The rain falls, and I never meant to leave you standing
 The rain falls, and I never meant to leave you standingThe rain falls, and I never meant to leave you standing
 The rain falls, and I never meant to leave you standing
 The rain falls, and I never meant to leave you standing
 The rain falls, and I never meant to leave you standing