

Think Pink

Molly Nilsson

There's something rotten in the State of Today, there's something twisted in the world we all portray Don't let them tell you where your mind may roam don't stop your fantasies from running away from home On and on, something's just stopping us from righting the wrong
when they tell you the skies are blue but the world is looking different to you On and on, something's are stopping us from moving along when they're telling you what to think but the skies are clearly pink When they're nice and clean I'm telling you, they're twice as mean It's time to size up the night escape your prison of light!
Cause on and on,
something's just stopping us from righting the wrong ain't no mention of it on the news how the world is looking different to you On and on, something's are stopping us from moving along when they tell you the skies are grey but looking through a glass of rosÃ©
the skies are clearly pink Each of us together and we're stronger than the norm feel the change of weather and the coming of a storm we're so much better than we think
The skies are clearly pink
The skies are clearly pink
The skies are clearly pink

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>