What a Drag

Sugarbomb

What a drag how people change
What a drag how people change
What a drag how people change
Once you really get to know themWell I think about friends in the back of my mind
Are they still just kids frozen in time
The mirror won't lie as the days fly by
Are they all no better off than I
I wonder how fate has upon them smiled
Do they cast happy shadows and silhouettes
I'd like to get busy redefine my past
But its probably better just the way it isI don't know what to make of you
All these changes perfect strangers
Somehow I still relate to you
Hardly any difference after allLife goes on
Just goes on
It's never what you think
Life goes on
Just goes on
It's harder to predict
Life goes on
Just goes on
Something like a dream it goes on and on and on and onChorusIf I had it my way I'd be back in my car
Drive around your house and wonder where you are
Till the future pours in like a waterfall
And inevitably erase it all
I think about you often are you still the same
Should I call you by some other name
I'd like to get busy do it over again
But you never know for certain how it's gonna to endI'm not sure what to make of you
All these changes perfect strangers
Somehow I still relate to you
Hardly any difference after allLife goes on
Just goes on
It's never what you think
Life goes on
Just goes on
It's harder to predict
Life goes on
Just goes on

No never what you think
More like a dream it goes on and on and on and onChorusWell I think about friends in the back of my mind
Are they still just kids frozen in time
If I had it my way from the very start
I'd have left some things just the way they are.
