Everything Went Black

Thee Oh Sees

Crawling the walls through every crack and crevice teems blackness washing over the windowpanes painting the buildings in between creeping down the alley ways consuming every street soundless swarm of nothingness sure to doom us all pulling screaming earthlings into its toothless jaws endlessly beginning spreading with no sign of stop horror of horrors truly maddening in size running just prolongs the end inevitably it strides where has it come from? how can it be stopped? so quickly we're to meet our end our empire we have lost karmatic Armageddon no religion could foresee a planet once forsaken not even a memory streetlights bend into the void cars enveloped whole darkness deeper than a blindman's sleep soon to paint the world insatiable its hunger it drinks the sea without a belch stretching to the other side where it is sure to meet itself unearthly vacuum devouring the hourglass now empty its time to say goodbye watching your life flash before mortal eyes terror fills your heart screams of anguish greet your ears living death voracious insidious impervious to damage we are slaughtered as if lambs.
