

Good Luck

Big D And The Kids Table

I've seen 22 years of life
And I think I basically know what's going on
As far as what life's not about,
Well there's a cycle I won't be part of,
But not because I don't think it's right,
I must keep doing what I think I'm here for
Not get buried in someone else's life,
When I was younger, I didn't know life meant falling into place,
Taking over a menial position
That meant nothing to you in the first place,
Getting older, confused by friends they're 22 and almost done,
I must have missed the grow-up sign
I thought we were still having fun So good luck, with not forgetting who you are,
Good luck, even though it seems you have to Good luck, finding your own way, not setting in where your not happy
Good luck, remembering it's only life
Good luck, not following what you don't believe in Good luck, seeing many problems are only a big deal if you make them Everyone I met surrounds me every day in my head
It's a part of what makes me who I am,
It's the attitude of my life,
And I turn around and see how some have made me feel
So nice to be, just made me laugh at life when I couldn't deal,
And I wanna be just like that It's what I'm trying to be want to be,
Not held down by others but now I can see,
I'll make my life a place I like or I could just sit and blame for things not right, What's to gain spending all of our life putting your friends down again and again, Good luck, being someone who can always help someone out
Good luck, in remembering how much you can effect someone else
Good luck, with not being selfish
Good luck, with not being alone
Good luck, in this world we're all just trying to get along
Good luck, with not getting caught up
Good luck, with not getting stressed
Good luck, with figuring things out
Good luck, with doing your best
Good luck, with not losing yourself
Good luck, with standing for what's right

Good luck, for being happy when you sit to review your life

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>