

Endless Summer Days

Diesel Boy

it was a sunny summer day of sophomore year Derek, Marc, and I on = highway 55 surfboards on the rack, ate breakfast on the way it's days = like these that make me glad to be alive surfs a crashing, bronze bodies = on the sand this must be heaven where the water meets the land I love = these california ways I miss those endless summer days we grabbed our = boards and fought the waves to get outside the ocean is so powerful, so = crystal blue and white we felt so safe there like the pearl inside the = shell it's days like these that make the stories I love to tell we = watched the tide recede, the sun began to fade the lifeguards left their = stand, another perfect day
