Don't Stop Drivin'

Thomas Rhett

She had a fire in her eyes
A wildflower in her hair
Like she'd been waiting outside
All day for me to get there
She had on that yellow dress
And jean jacket over her shoulder
And she spun around for me
And the rest is historyShe turned up the radio
As soon as she climbed in
Said I don't care where we go
As long as we're flying
She looked over at me like
She'd never stop smiling
Said whatever you do, babe
Just don't stop driving tonight
But she started painting her toes
Right around Tupelo
She asked "Are we getting close?"
I said "To where?", she said "I don't know"
She made me pull over
For a kiss at sundown
She wanted our picture
By the sign saying "Elvis' Hometown"She turned up the radio
As soon as she climbed in
Said I don't care where we go
As long as we're flying
She looked over at me like
She'd never stop smiling
Said whatever you do, babe
Just don't stop driving tonight
We drove straight through the night
Just like we stole that car
I would've gone a million miles
'Cause she stole my heart manShe turned up the radio
As soon as she climbed in
Said I don't care where we go
As long as we're flying
She looked over at me like
She'd never stop smiling

Said whatever you do, babe
Just don't stop driving tonight
Said whatever you do, baby
Just don't stop driving tonight
Just don't stop driving tonightShe wanted to run away with me
That was alright
And I just wanted to see
The world through her eyes
