

In the End

The Suicide Machines

what you see isn't what you feel and what you see isn't always true sacrifice what you think is real for the sake of being cool what you believe you took from someone else what you think and what you feel sacrifice what was in last year for a fucking better dealtry looking from a different point of view two sides to every story, which one is true? when you're on the outside looking in....stereotypes, well i've heard a few but i guess that, that its nothing new people always judging you but never judge themselves being cool, well you've gotta be different being different means being cool it's alright to be different until something else is cooltry looking from a different point of view two sides to every story, which one is true?
when you're on the outside looking in it's all just fashion in the end
