

Collides with Beauty

ATB

And I know you know, it should be me that's holding you
And I know that pride collides with beauty
And I know you know, it should be me that's touching you
And I know that pride collides with beauty I'm upside down and inside out the room's not big enough
I'm waiting for your love, been waiting for your love
Gone round and round falling down the floor's not flat enough
I'm waiting for your love, been waiting for your love And I know you know, it should be me that's holding you
And I know that pride collides with beauty
And I know you know, it should be me that's touching you
And I know that pride collides with beauty And I know you know, it should be me that's holding you
And I know that pride collides with beauty
And I know you know, it should be me that's loving you
And I know that pride collides with beauty It's too much, it's not enough the walls can't hold me up
I'm waiting for your love, been waiting for your love
I'm back and forth and forth and back the window's fogging up
I'm waiting for your love, been waiting for your love And I know you know, it should be me that's holding you
And I know that pride collides with beauty
And I know you know, it should be me that's touching you
And I know that pride collides with beauty And I know you know, it should be me that's holding you
And I know that pride collides with beauty
And I know you know, it should be me that's loving you
And I know that pride collides with beauty
