

When November Falls

Richard Marx

how did you arrive in the single moment that i looked away your life waits for you in every second and every word you say for all the memories remaining i need to let you know from the hardest times to the hills you climb i'll be your warmest summer when your dreams run dry i am on your side to pull you out from under when all of your leaves are golden everyone's arms are open but i'll be there when november falls i am with you when i hear you breathing and when i'm far away surrender to your fears of falling cause i won't let you go chorus when your hopes have been gunned down and when you get lost, i will find you i'll hear you calling out my name, oh chorus
