Halfway to Hazard

Her momma named her Daisy, got it from a magazine
Through the mountains in her white dress shed run chasin me
Thought she was faster cause I told her so
Even though it wasnt quite the truthWell, I know shes an angel
Even though she aint got wings
Cause my sweet Daisy loved the hell out of meThere in the back pew of a Sunday mornin' church
The preacher preachin' gospel, well, thats when I gave her
Her first kiss, she told me so
Even though it wasnt quite the truthWell, I know shes an angel
Even though she aint got wings
Cause my sweet Daisy loved the hell out of meShe gave me her body, she bared me her soul
Didnt ask for nothin'
She lead me down to the river, she said, you need to be baptized
Held me under the moonlight
Lord, I dont know why she loved the hell out of meEight years later we got married and the day her water broke
Doctor said theres complications but I still had hope
She was gonna make it cause she told me so
Even though it wasnt quite the truthWell, I know shes an angel
And now shes got her wings
Yeah, my sweet Daisy loves the hell out of meShe gave me her body, she bared me her soul
Didnt ask for nothin'
She lead me down to the river, she said, you need to be baptized
Held me under the moonlight
Lord, I dont know why she loved the hell out of me, yeahI thought Id name her Daisy in her mommas memory
Through the mountains in her white dress she runs chasin' me
Thinks she is faster cause I tell her so
Even though it isnt quite the truthShe gave me her body, she bared me her soul
Didnt ask for nothin', nothin' at all
She lead me down to the river, she said, you need to be baptized
Held me under the moonlight
Lord, I dont know why she loved the hell out of me, yeah
Oh yeah, she loved the hell out of me, yeahSee my Daisy, she loved the hell out of me
Right out of me
My Daisy, oh, oh, oh, right out of me
That girl loved me, the hell out of me
