

The Unimaginable Life

Kenny Loggins

I know we were born to be here again
In the kind of love that you die for Somethin' in the innocent winds
Been callin' out to me over an' over I would build a castle upon our dreams
Or leave it all behind us in ashes
Just to feel your heart in my heart
A promise and a prayer to lead an' to follow Voices that call from an ancient dream
Remind me of a world I've never known We are the bridge, we are the fire
An' I burn in a river of love
And now I can sing with all my heart
Oh, I believe all that I've seen in your eyes
An unimaginable life, unimaginable life Something in the way that you say hello
Even to the sound of your heartbeat
All seems so familiar to me
My soul-memory of love leading me homeward Voices that call from an ancient dream
The promise of a life I've never known We are the bridge, we are the fire
And I burn in a river of love
And now I can sing with all my heart
Here it begins, freedom is in your eyes
An unimaginable life, unimaginable life Remain in your arms
Here in your arms We are the bridge, we are the fire
And I burn in a river of love
And now I can sing with all my heart
Oh, I believe, darlin' that we've arrived in An unimaginable life, our unimaginable life Unimaginable life, oh
Unimaginable life I could never imagine that love could last
I could never believe until you came
I could never imagine that love could last
I could never believe until you came I could never imagine that love could last
I could never believe until you came
I could never imagine that love could last I could never imagine that love could last
I could never believe until you came
I could never imagine that love could last
I could never believe until you came I could never imagine that love could last
I could never believe until you came
I could never imagine that love could last I could never imagine that love could last
I could never believe until you came
I could never imagine that love could last
I could never believe until you came
