

Only Love Is Real

Carole King

As I bask in the glow of a just-lit fire
Feeling the warmth as the flames grows higher
I think it's true that nothing is really new under the sun
Watching a new love grow from old love's embers
Yesterday's gone but today remembers
Doesn't it seem to come down the same for everyone
Only love is real, everything else illusion
Adding to the confusion of the way we connive at being alive
Tracing a line till we can define, the thing that allows us to feel
Only love is real, only love is real
Childhood dreams like muddy waters
Flowing through me to my son and daughters
Everything I ever thought is confirmed as truth to me
Even as I see the way that I want to go now
Still I wished I had known, what I know now
Maybe I could have spared you giving your youth to me
Only love is real, everything else illusion
Adding to the confusion of the way we can try to just stay alive
Tracing a line till we can define, the thing that allows us to feel
Only love is real, only love is real
Only love is real, only love is real
