Hey Kids!

Arkells

Heads popped up,
The loud speaker blared
A thousand different men,
The same feeling shared,
Eyes were all blurry from sleepless nights
It was all adding up,
This must be a sign
His shoulders were sore,
Just like he was told
Something about
"You reap what you sow"
He digs up the past, every time he comes home
Hearing his mom talk to his aunt on the phone.Is destiny calling my name?
Is destiny calling my name?
Michael, Michel, Mikel, put a label on ya
England, France visit Scandinavia
Hey Kids, you're so precious
You're just a boy like the rest of us
Hey Kids,
You're so precious
You're just a boy like the rest of us
You're just a boy like the rest of us
You're just a boy like the rest of usI like a good story much as the next guy
I like a tear jerker,
That makes me cry
But you're scaring the kids and its past bedtime
You're putting ideas into their curious minds
Never again,
Is what we all said
Never again, or we'll all end up dead
Your tall tails follow and surround me
When all I ever wanted was your arms around me
Is destiny calling my name?
Mary, Maria, Molly be adventurous
Holland, Spain, don't forget the IrishHey Kids, you're so precious
You're just a girl like the rest of us
Hey Kids,
You're so precious
You're just a girl like the rest of us

You're just a girl like the rest of usMichael, Michel, Mikel, put a label on ya
England, France visit Scandinavia
Mary, Maria, Molly be adventurous
Don't forget the Irish, please don't forget the IrishHey Kids, you're so precious
You're just a boy like the rest of us
Hey Kids,
You're so precious
You're just a boy like the rest of us
Hey Kids,
You're so precious,
You're just a girl like the rest of us
You're just a girl like the rest of us
You're just a boy like the rest of us
