Cutting The Ties

August Burns Red

Silence is a frustrating answer when all you want is a sign. It's hard to be surrounded by the ones that you love when they keep passing you by. Beneath the tough facade, I know that we are getting through. None of us are ready to just remember you. Whenever you are lost I know that we can find you standing outside screaming at the sky. Don't let the tears of agony consume your heart. Let it beat on in hopes and dreams of a new start. No one knows the weight on your shoulders. No one knows the burdens you bare. These thoughts won't stop. It'd be so easy to take the easy way out. Compassion is a beautiful thing so show some for yourself. Rock solid from the outside looking in. Inside you're praying for help. You're praying for help. It's hard to be surrounded by the ones that you love when they keep passing you by. Beneath the tough facade I know that we're getting through. Life is a gift. Remember that. Break free. I know silence is a hard answer when all you want is a sign. Patience is a virtue. You will be revived.
