

I Was Blown Away

Pam Tillis

You drove up in your pickup truck
That hot September day
Not a wisp of wind in the parking lot
But honey, I was blown away And later on that fall at the Dixie mall
When I didnt know what to say
I seen hide nor hair of no dynamite
But honey, I was blown away Big sister said, "Youd better watch out"
I slammed my door and said
"You dont know what youre talkin' about" Mama said, I sang when the telephone rang
And she called out, "Honey, its Ray"
And like a piece of dust on a four lane road
Honey, I was blown away Im talking bout smithereens
Just you in a pair of jeans
Now I know what crazy means Big sister said, "Youd better watch out"
I slammed my door and said
"You dont know what youre talkin' about" Then one Tuesday night daddy said
"Some guys on the porch with a big bouquet"
And as you stood out there with your slicked back hair
I was blown away And when we slipped out back across the railroad track
And you softly touched my face
Well I never did feel a train go by
But honey, I was blown away
No I never did feel a train go by
But I was blown away
