Backseat Clause

Alex Lloyd

If this gets me home then I'll be yours
Last plane to leave, well, it's a backseat clause
You never call since you found God
I love you more 'cause it's a backseat clauseI'm still running away with you
I'm still running away with youYou are the one that I have found
A mystery that has come around
All lonely souls must find a friend
You are the means to a stop, start, endI'm still running away with you
I'm still running away with you
I'm still running away with you
I'm still running away with youI'm still running away with you
I'm still running away with you
I'm still running away with you
I'm still running away with youIt's all the same
It's all the same
It's all the same

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/