

Finding Beauty in a Broken World

Born Cages

Tripped on honesty until I fell
I bid devotion a warm farewell
On love's cheek I gave a kiss
I never wanted them to seal my lips
The thunder grew closer and closer
A fighter's not always a soldier
And if I'm forced to see another starving girl
Looking for beauty in a broken world...
The doves talk about us with sparrows,
"If only their vision wasn't so narrow,"
But she realized the key to happiness remains inside,
Half persistence and half a lie
The sky was as thick as a brick wall
No cracks of sunlight or a phone call
And all she wanted was to be a different girl
Finding beauty in a broken world
Misery's a raging hurricane
And in these times I turn to poetry,
Words moving externally
As the soul turns into metaphors
That describe what we've been waiting for
And when I found the missing key
Figured out I'm glad I'm not me
Didn't want nobody's sympathy
'Cause we're going up and breaking free
We're breaking free
Misery is a raging hurricane
It's a fire without a flame
Just another rolling stone
And loneliness is a scream without a sound,
When you lose everything you've found
And this broken world keeps turning around
