

Ruby Shoes

Jessica Andrews

The moon cast a shadow on my bedroom wall
One silhouette not two
Nothing about this is familiar at all
Guess it's all what you're used to
I never pictured myself in this frame of mind
Maybe things will be different when I open my eyes
But my name ain't Dorothy, these ain't ruby shoes
I can't click my heel anytime I choose and fly away
That ain't a tornado, blowing out that door
That's the sound of him leaving 'cause he don't love me anymore
I'll just walk the floor
Oh, but I sure could use, some of those ruby shoes
Wish I could wave a wand like he waved goodbye
And change the lock on my heart
This is gonna drown me one tear at a time
If I don't stop it before it starts
Just sitting here wishing won't get it done
I know there's a road outta here but I don't know which one
But my name ain't Dorothy, these ain't ruby shoes
I can't click my heel anytime I choose and fly away
That ain't a tornado, blowing out that door
That's the sound of him leaving 'cause he don't love me anymore
I'll just walk the floor
Oh, but I sure could use, some of those ruby shoes
Sure could use
Some of those ruby shoes
