

Here, Where I Am

Aubrey Ashburn

Here, where I am
It all seems clear.
I can't live without my happiness.
And some tears
Will always be there. When the wind blows it finds me
Cold in my chair,
Going nowhere.
Oh, pity on me!
But what will I find here? When my feelings are emptied
Right at on the floor.
Tears no more.
And I'll sleep for a week
And, man, it would
And knowing what's fair to say.
Here, where I am
It all seems clear.
I can't live without my happiness.
And some tears
Will always be there. After midnight the colours deepen,
Weaving through my hair,
Riding on air.
And I can feel good,
I believe that I should.
And knowing what's fair to say. Here, where I am
It all seems clear.
I can't live without my happiness.
And some tears
Will always be there.
Here, where I am
It all seems clear.
I can't live without my happiness.
And some tears
Will always be there. I used to be happy,
But I never knew.
But when I've come around to this,
I can't live without my happiness. Here, where I am
It all seems clear.
I can't live without my happiness.
And some tears

Will always be there. Here, where I stand

It all seems clear.

I can't live without my happiness.

And those years

Will always be there.

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>