I Wonder Who Is Like This One

Hello Saferide

Anything we should know about your change? -- People are like songs, it's true
Some seem dull at first but then they grow on you
Me, I'm like 'Can't get you out of my head'
Annoying at times, but I make you wanna dance
But you are the only one I've met who's 'God only knows'
I liked you the first time I met you
And it grows and grows and grows

People are like songs, I swear
Some found you as a child, and still they're always there
A boy I once knew was 'Anarchy in the UK'
Burned out too quickly but in such a beautiful way
And you are the only one I've met who's 'God only knows'
I liked you the first time I met you
And it grows and grows and grows

People are like songs, I've been told
Some claim your ears but you never hear story unfold
Oh, 'Radio Gaga' all your high school friends
Reminds you of times when you were someone else
Then 'God only knows' and you pared up as two
As the turn of the seasons you come and go
I can never claim control of either of you
You're too sweet to be just mine alone
And I try to stay humble over the fact that Sometime when the time is right you will pass my door
The crescendo comes and'
And 'God only knows' and you have the same sad similarity
That every time it's over I want to press play again
But the only difference appears to be
I can force it on one of you and on the other I can't

Lyrics powered by lyrics.tancode.com written by ANNIKA NORLIN, ANDREAS PER MATTSSON
Lyrics Â© BMG RIGHTS MANAGEMENT US, LLC, EMI Music Publishing

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/