

Your Soul

Coasts

Just because we're not alone
You echo words you've heard
You let me go just to watch me discern
Just because it feel the same
'Till the morning calls
Even roads feel the sun so cold
Out on the ocean, that wild dark sea
You're the shark that's been lurking beneath
Fear has gripped me, where can I go?
The light flickers as I let you know Your soul will grow to hide your face
Let me down for a second
Time, the love you can't replace
Give me a chance for a second
Just because it's all the same
Just a higher grade
Washing over the iron gates
Just because our souls are alone
Bodies all around
I see the earth in your eyes on the ground
Ten thousand trees lie in wait for the fall
It's far to easy to ignore the call
Still gripped with fear before your eyes
Your mad stare into the dark of the night Your soul will grow to hide your face
Let me down for a second
Time, the love you can't replace
Give me a chance for a second
Time Clouds, a gust, dissolve, we trust
Your frown, a blush, resolve, we must
Clouds, a gust, dissolve, we trust
Your frown, a blush, resolve, we must Your soul will grow to hide your face
Let me down for a second
Time, the love you can't replace
Give me a chance for a second Your soul will grow to hide your face
Let me down for a second
Time, the love you can't replace
Give me a chance for a second
Time

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnyrics.com/>