Karma

Kamelot

I am the king of honor, gold and glory But every king must also die Have I been just and righteous, what is glory? I know I've torn and taken life And here I stand a small and simple man Who will trade his karma for my kingdom? A sacrificial rite to render truth The fire in my soul rejects my wisdom 'Cause all you do in life comes back to you I am a king in crisis counting minutes There is an ending to my reign My sins have come to face me, I can feel it That I have lived my life in vain And now I know I'll reap the seeds I've sown Who will trade his karma for my kingdom? A sacrificial rite to render truth The fire in my soul rejects my wisdom 'Cause all you do in life comes back to you Am I mad? I feel so void and cold Who can tell, who holds the stories untold? Tired, trembling, I am descending Will I have to stay here and live this life again Who will trade his karma for my kingdom? A sacrificial rite to render truth The fire in my soul rejects my wisdom 'Cause all you do in life comes back to you
