Just a Little Bit

Shotgun Rider

I was pushing 80 in my old mans Chevrolet
Roses on the dash just about a quarter tank
Couldn't get there fast enough
Sunset brushing the horizon line
Pulled up to her place caught her hiding a smile
I said baby its about time

Maybe if you've give in just a little bit
Roll the windows down and let the good times in
Dancing bear feet through my head lights
Jasmine in the air, stars in the sky
Oh maybe a midnight kiss
Oh baby if you'd gave in
Just a little bit Just a little bit

We were talking life by the dashboard glow
Wonderful tonight on the radio
Thought maybe the moments right
Slow against her palm and she grabbed mine back
I said baby its about time

Maybe if you've give in just a little bit
Roll the windows down and let the good times in
Dancing bear feet through my head lights
Jasmine in the air, stars in the sky
Oh maybe a midnight kiss
Oh baby if you'd gave in
Just a little bit Just a little bit

She was still smiling when i pulled her in close
Her fingers through my hair next thing i know
I was chasing her pretty lips on mine
She looked up and me and said its about time

Maybe if you've give in just a little bit
Roll the windows down and let the good times in
Dancing bear feet through my head lights
Jasmine in the air, stars in the sky
Oh maybe a midnight kiss
Oh baby if you'd gave in

Just a little bit Just a little bit
