

What Did You Expect

Alive Like Me

I'm kind of sick singing you don't want to hear
You can't live up to the lies that you love
Baked inside your head for all these years

On your break I will stand corrected
Staring at the floor, watching you pick up the broken pieces

Holding back the truth from me
So much that I can start to see right through you
Why did it take so long
To get across the message
Or to get this off of my chest

Slow down, it's my right not to cover this myself
Pick your head up and change direction
While you still recognize reflections of yourself

I never.

If you can close your eyes and fall asleep tonight
You can't escape this nightmare that you call your life

You know your actions are burning bridges down
Shutting doors cause your words do not mean nothing anymore
Know it only gets worse when you wake up

Holding back the truth from me
So much that I can start to see right through you
Why did it take so long
To get across the message
Or to get this off of my chest

Slow down, it's my right not to cover this myself
Pick your head up and change direction
While you still recognize reflections of yourself
Slow down, th... you will not
Lose track of being so deceiving
Every other second you had me believing
Something natural in this..
Get inside my head, these are the lines you said

Holding back the truth from me
So much that I can start to see right through you
Why did it take so long
To get across the message
Or to get this off of my chest

Slow down, it's my right not to cover this myself
Pick your head up and change direction
While you still recognize reflections of yourself
Slow down, th... you will not
Lose track of being so deceiving
Every other second you had me believing
Something natural in this..
Get inside my head, these are the lines you said
