

Girl In My Head

Jer Coons

sitting here without you and i think i'm finally numb for the first time in my mind thinking i don't feel so young and i just can't lose this little space i once adored and i implore when i realize there's nothing that i've been waiting for

(Chorus)

why can't i move on why can't i let go it has been so long my love for you it only grows and i can't read minds i swear to god that i try when i finally see the girl in my head is not in front of me stting here without you like a song whose name i've lost though the message resonates we made the search so great how could we ever see the cost

(Chorus)

who can say that in their life the choices made were always right but who would trade these humbling times it takes the growing pains to finally change your mind

(Chorus)

when will i finally see the girl in my head is not in front of me
when will i finally see the girl in my head is not in front of me

Lyrics submitted by Lala.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>