

Living My Life out Loud

Lori Michaels

I thought I could live ordinary
Thinking the stars wouldnt fade away.
My heart will never ever justify all of the choices that Ive made
Ive been burning like a fire in the midst of the rain
I know you can feel my desire, but can you feel my pain?
Now baby you had me in a corner
It was the right place, right time
You were a wanna-be high roller until I looked deep in your eyes
And it came as a big surprise
I thought the world of you
Took me long to realize but then I learned the truth
(see) Everyone told me I should have known better
You turned my trust into your broke-ass lies
Words hit harder than hate in any weather
I should have pressed fast forward or rewind
I gotta save myself from the storm
I cant give up right now
While your living it up and down
Im gonna show the world that Im living my life out loud
The medias all up in my face and its driving me up a wall
And while youre crying out my name
I wont catch you when you fall
Cause youre too much to carry
Not to mention you did me wrong
I know it aint necessary but your making me headstrong
Its so hard to move on, the world is seeing my bad days
Rumors chasin me for so long-dig it
Me and the girls aint just a phase
Dont make me put the guilt on you
But I gotta do what I gotta do
Youve been acting so lame
Well, playing your dirty games
Everyone told me I should have known better
You turned my trust until your broke-ass lies
Words hit harder than hate in any weather
I should have pressed fast forward or rewind
I gotta save myself from the storm
I cant give up right now

Lyrics provided by <https://damnlyrics.com/>