Dream the Fall

Ollabelle

I went out at late one evenin'
Moon was shining bright
Somewhere off into the distance
Beyond the neon lightSomewhere off into the distance
I would heed fate's call
To discover something other
To dream the fallOh, rock will always roll
Oh, be still inside my soulSomewhere off into the distance
Followed in a rush
Where I gave upon my brothers
Dressed in camouflageWhere I asked them are the buildings
Women, children, men?
Well, they're out building in the desert
Castles made of sandOh, rock will always roll
Oh, be still inside my soulThe lights are running in the city
Red and white, and blue
Colors on the inside glowing
Colors made in hueAnd streets are paved with wooden caskets
Glory new and old
And beyond makes the blood look redder
As it flowsOh, rock will always roll
Oh, be still inside my soul
Oh, the way I'll dream the fallI followed roads [Incomprehensible] followed steeple
Followed men of war
Followed orders from the people
Who dreamed would fall
