Dime Western

Screaming Trees

Born to work under the way your velvet lies
Smoke and fog, getting hazy in the sky, ariseI've been where you've never been I've seen what you never seen
I've dreamed what you never dream
I've left what you never leave
But now I can only find one way to take me higherRays of shattered light to clean my eyes
This spark just burns away until I'm blind insideI've seen what you never seen
I've been where you've never been
I've dreamed what you never dream
I've left what you never leave
But now I can only find one way to take me higherThere's only a reflection left to hide
Once you know the aim, I told you it's still mineI've seen what you never seen
I've been where you've never been
I've left what you never leave
I've dreamed what you've never dreamed
But now I can only find one way to take me higherBut now I can only find one way
Take me higher, take me higher, take me higher
