

What They Call Love (Loud Version)

Bettie Serveert

What they call love
Is just mother nature trying to have her way
    Like a chemical inside your mind
It turns you deaf and dumb and blind so easilyWhen I care more than I care to know
    I just play it down, so my fears don't show
    How many times can I push them aside
    I don't knowAnd here's to the fear
    That blinded me all those years
    And here's to the times
When I almost lost my mindI take care of myself
    I don't need no one else
    But I love the way you say my name
    So sweetlyI wonder should I trust in you
    Or anyone, no matter who
    You say you love me like a friend
Is this for real or just pretend, oh, no offenseAnd here's to the fear
    That blinded me all those years
    And here's to the times
When I almost lost my mindI said to myself
    I don't need no one else
    But I love the way you say my name
