

Hey

Backseat Goodbye

Hey I think your cute,
Would you like to be my new best friend
We can talk for hours,
Or just lay in bed

Your just the kind of kid i can grow old with,
So won't you walk with me to the park, up the road

I told you that I'd be right back,
You said that I'll be the judge of that,
'Cause you see the boys have a tendency to run from me as fast as they can,
I don't know why

And I just laughed
And asked if you'd like a coke or some sort of assorted beverage from the diner up the road
If so,
You should walk with me,

Feel free to hold my hand,
Feel free to kiss me on the cheek,
Even though I,
Even though I'd prefer,
Even though I'd prefer the lips.

Hey I think your groovy,
Would you wanna see a movie with me

We can sit in uncomfortable seats,
And eventually I'll get up the nerve,
to put my, arm around you
Can I put my arms around you
'Cause I'd sure like to

I'd be like an episode of Boy Meets World,
Except without the commercials,
And I'm just fine with that,
How about you, How about you

I like the way you talk,
I like your dyed black hair,

I love your halfass accent you stole from the foreign movies,

I like your pretty eyes,

And how your afraid of the dark

Well I am too,

So would you like to take a walk with me through well-lit park yeah, just up the block,

Can I put my arms around you,

'Cause I'd sure like to,

I'll be the bright side of your bad days,

I'll be the bright side of your bad nights,

I'll be the bright side of your bad days,

If you'll be mine, If you'll be mine.
