Closing Words

Insomnium

This will be for now and for ever the diverging of our paths...Now that this night has turned into a dawn
I step aside from this path of grieving
Left with all these things I never had chance to say
Words wishful, filled with caringYou must stop your bleeding
Before you run yourself dry
You must let go of your wound
Because love it is crying for is goneNow that this night has turned into a dawn
I give up this life I have been leading
Left with all these things I never meant to say
Words deceitful, double-dealing
