It's Not Your Fault

Athlete

It's not your fault
You didn't see it coming
90 miles an hour
Gone so fast and now you're left with nothing
At all.
It's not your fault
I give up every part of you
That they could spare
Mixed between the petrol
And the one lie
And it's code
Their still in your eyes
And now that your gone to some place else
I can't save you
Because the brightest lights are closing in on us.
But their still your eyes
And now that your gone to some place else
I can't save you

So I'm giving every part of you away.
It's not your fault
Something
You made up to your bedroom every night
Leaves us chasing memories and trying to understand
We can't wait
But their still eyes
And now that your gone to some place
I can't save you
Because the brightest lights are closing in on us.
But their still your eyes
And now that your gone to some place else
I can't save you
So I'm giving every part of you away.
I'm not gone
What the hell just happened here?
I'm not gone
What the hell just happened?
