

Nails for Breakfast, Tacks for Snacks

Panic! at the Disco

Watch your mouth because your speech is slurred enough
That you just might swallow your tongue
Im sure you would want to give up the ghost
With just a little more poise then that Or was it God who chokes in these situations?
Running late? Oh, no, he called in
Or was it God who chokes in these situations?
Running late? Oh no, he called in The hospices, a relaxing weekend getaway
Where youre a cut above all the rest
Sick and sad patients on first name basis
With all the top physicians Prescribed pills to offset the shakes, to offset the pills
You know you should take it a day at a time Thats when you stutter something profound
To the support on the line
And with the way youve been talking
Every word gets you a step closer to Hell Thats when you stutter something profound
To the support on the line
And with the way youve been talking
Every word gets you a step closer to Hell Prescribed pills to offset the shakes, to offset the pills
You know you should take it a day at a time
Prescribed pills to offset the shakes, to offset the pills
You know you should take it a day at a time I am alone in this bed, house and head
She never fixes this, but at least she
I am alone in this bedroom
She never fixes this but at least she Prescribed pills to offset the shakes, to offset the pills
You know you should take it a day at a time
Prescribed pills to offset the shakes, to offset the pills
You know you should take it a day at a time The hospices, a relaxing weekend getaway
Where youre a cut above all the rest
Sick and sad patients on first name basis
With all the top physicians

Songwriters

Urie, Brendon Boyd / Ross, George Ryan / Smith, Spencer James Published by

Lyrics © EMI Music Publishing Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>