

How My Soul Cries Out For You

Kansas

The night was cold, was deja-vu
I went on thinking we were too
How my soul cried out for you
Too many places we once knew
Too many faces, still no clue
How my soul cried out for you
I didn't think I needed you when I got out on my own
Dead set on havin' my way I was convinced
That I was right and you were wrong
Then I started thinkin' to myself
Well maybe what they say is true

How could we get so turned around
When you needed me as much as I needed you
I tried to get you on the phone
(No one answered, no one answered at home)
I heard that you thought we were through (Somethin' I had, somethin' I had to do)
And how my soul cries for you
How my soul cries out for you
It cries for love that we once knew
How my soul cries out for you
