

Wings

naked superhero

They walked away but you still there.
Some fall astray but you don't care.
It takes a long run 'til the end,
not always happy still pretend that it's okay to keep on losing all the things that we have gained.
And as the clockhands keep on moving,
all the memories are faint.

And now the weight lies on your shoulders,
because everything is gone, everything
is gone!
But your wings they don't get older.
Accept the weight but not for long,
weight but not for long.

Everyday becomes a fight
and there's no sleep to find at night,
because the path in front of you
is getting darker black and blue.
And as you try to see your hands
you slowly seem to understand,
that you can not see it right,
but in the distance there's a light!

And now the weight lies on your shoulders,
because everything is gone, everything
is gone!
But your wings they don't get older.
Accept the weight but not for long,
weight but not for long!

Wherever we will go,
you know the truth will always show,
that we are not alone,
not alone!

And now the weight lies on your shoulders,
because everything is gone, everything
is gone!

But your wings they don't get older.
Accept the weight but not for long,
weight but not for long!

This time I'll be there listen up,
I will be there for you, I will be there.

This time I'll be there listen up,
I will be there for you, I will be there.

This time I'll be there listen up,
I will be there for you, I will be there.

This time I'll be there listen up,
I will be there for you, I will be there.

And now the weight lies on your shoulders,
because everything is gone, everything
is gone!

But your wings they don't get older.
Accept the weight but not for long,
weight but not for long!

Lyrics Submitted by Friederice Bauerfeind

Lyrics provided by <https://damnllyrics.com/>