Set Me Up

Level 42

Well a thing was said to me, times your enemy
It may heal a wound but it won't hide a scar
And the only thing to do is to yourself be true
'Cause a head thats in the clouds wont see the stars
When I was young I never walked away
I'd nail my colors to the wall
Though black and white soon turned to shades of gray
There is one thing that I really know for sure
Nobody's gonna set me up
Nobody's gonna set me up
There's a bitterness in you 'cause all you ever do
Is to drag your spirit screaming to the floor
But you gotta make your luck before your time is up
And they take you in your box out through the door
But I'm not saying I don't care at all
I'd rescue you before you drown
But if behind my back they start to talk
I'm a tougher kind of man this time around
Nobody's gonna set me up
Nobody's gonna set me up
When you look back and see what you have done
Well was it really that much fun
To laugh and kick the fallen ones
Gonna grow another skin, this one's getting thin
I've been bitten twice but never lost my nerve
Well you gotta hide the hurt when people dish the dirt
'Cause if you don't try, nothing, that's what you deserve
There are people with their eyes of green
Smiling when you take a fall
Maybe a friend or someone never seen
But even with my back against the wall
Nobody's gonna set me up
Nobody's gonna set me up
People said to me, times your enemy
It may heal a wound, but it won't hide a scar
Nobody's gonna set me up
Nobody's gonna set me up
And the only thing to do is to yourself be true
'Cause a head that's in the clouds won't see the stars
