

Now That You're Alive

Steve Winwood

Well, you can run, run
And move away from
But you cannot hide yourself
From self possession Well, you can run, run
And move away from
But you keep my eyes forever And your drug will keep you up at night
And your drug will mix you up
You don't love enough Keep my eyes open wide
Even though you're tired
While you justify
What you've self-prescribed Well, you can run, run
And move away from
You indulge your fix
And then you're chasing another Well, you can run, run
And move away from
But you can't deny forever So that love can wake you up at night
So that love can heal your soul
You can love enough Please close your eyes tonight
There's no need to cry
You can free your mind
Now that you're alive
Free your mind Well, you can run, run
And move away from
But you cannot hide yourself
From self possession Well, you can run, run
And move away from
But you keep my eyes forever And your drug will keep you up at night
And your drug will mix you up
You don't love enough Keep my eyes open wide
Even though you're tired
While you justify
What you've self-prescribed

Songwriters

WINWOOD, STEVE/WINWOOD, EUGENIA C. Published by

Lyrics © Warner/Chappell Music, Inc., Kobalt Music Publishing Ltd. Song Discussions is protected by U.S.

Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnyrics.com/>