Some Morning Soon

Patty Loveless

The wind is cold, I walk alone
My head is hanging low
The friend I found within myself
Is the only one I know
The blossoms of the dogwood tree
Have fallen all away
And like our love they lay to rest
Beneath the red, red clay
Some morning soon before the dawn
I'll wake to find you gone
I'm learning how to lose you now
And how to carry on

Your love, your love has known no fears
Your heart can feel no pain
I know, I know you'll soon be gone
To ride that midnight train
Some morning soon before the dawn
I'll wake to fine you gone
I'm learning how to lose you now
And how to carry on
I'm learning how to lose you now
And how to carry on

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/