Sweater Weather

The Artichokes

Verse
Ive been hiding
Ive been writing
The same songs in notebooks used to fuel the fires Im writingIve been singing
Ive been sinking
Between the molecules of drinks that Ive been drinkingIve been dreaming
Ive been keeping
My secrets safe inside my body while Im sleepingPrechorus
She leans in close, starts whispering
I wish I could fly, please lend me your wingsChorus
I hate the spring and all its storms
I think the summers far too warm
Just give me autumn and a mild winter
Im talking sweater weather, I long for sweater weatherVerse
Ive been driving
Ive been finding
The folks who mean the most are the ones who wont stop lyingIve been sleeping
Ive been piecing
Together pieces of the life that Ive been leadingIve been stopped up
Ive been locked up
Inside my head with all the things I swore to not touchPrechorus
ChorusBridge
For a moment I thought that something was there
Apprehensive, calm-faced by I was so scared
Dont you see this, this is why we cant follow our hearts
Id never want this, but Ive been a strain from the startThursday morning and the suns barely shone
People swarming to tear the meat from my bones
Dont you see this, this is why we cant follow our hearts
Id never want this but Ive been a strain from the startWho told you love was born in boys arms
Who told you love was born in the backseats of parked cars
Who told you love was measured out in sparks
Who told you love would keep you safe and keep you out of harm?Prechorus
Chorus

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/