American Car

Mike Doughty

My circus train pulls through the night
Full of lions and trapeze artists
Im done with elephants and clowns
I want to run away and join the officeAimless sister, youre surrounded of Angel faced and that Im astounded
How sweet you are
How sweet you areIn your long, black American car
And you know just where to find me
If I dont know who you are
You will remind meTheres a girl down in the bar
A flaming star upon her shoulder
Slugging hot pink frozen drinks
To put the foot down on her smolderEasy, cowboy, whats the rush now?
She may cleave me like a snowplow
How sweet you are
How sweet you areIn your long, black American car
And you know just where to find me
If I dont know who you are
You will remind meAll the lazy days are gone
Still the grind is grinding on
Throw the memories in a drawer
Lock myself behind a doorAimless sister, youre surrounded of Angel faced and that Im astounded of Easy, cowboy, whats the rush now?
She may cleave me like a snowplow
How sweet you are
How sweet you areIn your long, black American car
And you know just where to find me
If I dont know who you are
You will remind meLong, black American car
And you know just where to find me
If I dont know who you are
You will remind meYou will remind me
You will remind me
You will remind me
You will remind me
You will remind me
