

Until the End

Raised Fist

I feel this anger running through my veins and I don't know why
Everyday feels the same, can't explain
No time to pacify, no time to let it rest
Real friends, I keep them close to my chest
Like a bullet proof vest, and they never try to test
They don't always need to know best Sometimes they give you shit that is hard to digest
They be honest to you and what's next
Even more importantly, even when they treat you wrong they will confess
And they will only stay if you stay the same
Don't play any games if you want it to remain
A strong relationship is hard to maintain
It's hard to maintain We will stay like this until the end
Real people don't have to pretend and
They defend their friends until the end
We will stay like this until the end
Real people don't have to pretend and
They defend their friends I feel this anger, running around in my head and I don't know why
Your lies only magnifies, I'm burning inside
You got up on your high horse to glorify and Sell yourself like the best of friends
A real businessman on descend, never know what you intend I will take actions depending on what my psychiatrist recommend
You are driven by success
I am closing up behind and you feel the stress
But I have to come close in order to find out what the price tag says
I have to come close in order to find out what the price tag says We will stay like this until the end
Real people don't have to pretend and
They defend their friends until the end We will stay like this until the end
