Learning to Love Again

Christopher Williams

I almost turned and walked away
But there are words in me that I have to say
You fill the empty space in my heartYou came out of nowhere to rescue me
Now I have a reason to give the best of meAnd I'm learning to love again
Starting out as friends
When I need someone to console me
On you, I can dependI'm learning to love again
Finally my heart's beginning to mend
And I'm learning to love againI must admit, I was so afraid
Don't know if my heart could take another break
You came and chased the clouds away
(Chased the clouds away)You tell me that I don't have to be lonely
You tell me that you'll be there to hold meAnd I'm learning to love again
Starting out as friends
When I need someone to console me
On you, I can dependI'm learning to love again
Finally my heart's beginning to mend
And I'm learning to love againI'm learning to love again
Starting out as friends
When I need someone to console me
On you, I can dependI'm learning to love again
Finally my heart's beginning to mend
I'm learning to love, I'm learning to love
I'm learning to love, love againAll over again

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/