

War Zone

Dale Earnhardt Jr. Jr.

And when I woke up I was in a war zone
Just sorting through all of this propaganda
I close my eyes again, it all came seeping in
I wondered if I'd left my things in order It seemed so different than I'd pictured in my head
Everyone fighting looked exactly like me
The ground was shaking so I found a fox hole
And I stayed there for an entire weekend
I've been waiting too long, I don't wanna be carrying it no more
I've been waiting too long, I don't wanna be carrying it no more
At first I tried to run in each direction
Between the concrete and the other wreckage
Then the next morning there was nothing here
And we figured that the battle must have moved on
I've been wanting too long, I don't wanna be carrying it no more
I've been wanting too long, I don't wanna be carrying it no more
I don't wanna be a kid no more Then when I woke up I was in a war zone
I was surprised to find a gun beside my feet
The handle fit just right, my eye was on the sight
And I was feeling like it can't be that easy I don't wanna be carrying it no more
But we're gonna wait so long
Yeah we're gonna wait so long
Yeah we're gonna wait so long
Yeah we're gonna wait so long
Your heart beats faster
I'm trying to figure out if I should shoot or not
Your heart beats faster
I'm trying to figure out if I should shoot or not
Your heart beats faster
I'm trying to figure out if I should shoot or not
Your heart beats faster
I'm trying to figure out if I should shoot or not
