In the summer of 2009 i watched the sun collapse and die
So i left a letter carved in my arm that said there's love but it's not
Inside
And i've been thinking that things are not okay, it's one more wreck every Dying day
I'll say goodbye to the collapsing sun and with that note it's time i've GoneCome inside, july, altruicideI told my wife that there's life alive but when i reach in, it's dead
Inside
And this tree that stands so tall has lost it's leaves and soon must fall
Without warning and to disbelief, the day will come that i have to leave
As this shell is strangling me and the cut that's left is to be releasedCome inside, july, altruicide
