

Alienation

Morning Parade

Oh, secrets you hid so well
A time capsule the future will not find
And in the belly of a catacomb
A fuse alights, the future will not hide
It's swallowed by its pride
It's like a mobile phone
That can't phone home
It's an endless ringing
And it's a silent drone
Yeah, it's a passenger, a messenger
That's hectic and hysterical inside
They throw away our nation's pride and caution to the wind
Like bank notes in the bin
Like bank notes in the bin
So make angels in the snow, love a little more
Live with no regrets for everything you do
Because although the lights are on
There is no one home
And everything you are, everything you were,
Everything you've been's not everything you'll be
You tell me I'm a grain of sand in an hourglass
So throw me a land line
this is more like a landmine
Just one crosswire will blow the floor beneath our feet in the houses of A million civilians, prepacked with indifference inside
They throw away our nation's pride and caution to the wind
Like bank notes in the bin
Like bank notes in the bin
So make angels in the snow, love a little more
Live with no regrets for everything you do
Because although the lights are on
There is no one home
And everything you are, everything you were,
Everything you've been's not everything you'll be
We're really all the stars that burst in the universe
Of an alienation
Well we're such a long way from home
Let's dance in this universe unknown
So make angels in the snow, love a little more
Live with no regrets for everything you do
Because although the lights are on
There is no one home
And everything you are, everything you were,
Everything you've been's not everything you'll be
We're really all the stars that burst in the universe
Of an alienation
So make angels in the snow, love a little more
Live with no regrets for everything you do
Because although the lights are on
There is no one home
And everything you are, everything you were,
Everything you've been's not everything you'll be
We're really all the stars that burst in the universe
Of an alienation

Lyrics provided by <https://damnyrics.com/>