Flame

Bob Evans

Hardly spoke a word all night
'Cept to tell me that you were alright
Don't worry
Sitting holding up the bar
Going out just ain't no fun no more
I'm sorry

But you, you're not to blame
No you, you're not to blame
You've just spent so long holding on
You've just spent so long holding on to a flame

Told me you were going home
I asked if you wanted to be alone
I'll come
Grabbed my jacket, told my friends
I was leaving, when I turned around
You were gone

But you, you're not the one to blame
No you, you're not the one to blame
You've just spent so long holding on
You've just spent so long holding on
You've just spent so long holding on to a flame

Lyrics powered by lyrics.tancode.com written by MITCHELL
Lyrics Â© Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/