

Believer

Arid

If I could be someone
Within an hour or a day
If I could turn the wheel of fortune
Could you guess what I would sayIf I could be a believer
If I could be whatever
Youd want me to be
A believer, a believer, a believerSomeone, someone
To make your every day
Yeah, someone just trying
To wipe the tears awayYeah, someone burning fires
On the edge of every town
Yeah, someone just rolling
In your love as it comes downAnd if I could see things different
If I could turn the clock of time
If I could rearrange the play love
I would never leave you behindIf I could be a believer
If I could be
Whoever youd want me to be
A believer, a believer, a believerSomeone, someone
To make your every day
Yeah, someone just trying
To wipe them tears awayYeah, someone burning fires
On the edge of every town
Yeah, someone just rolling
In your love as it comes downSomeone, someone
To make your every day
Yeah, someone bitter morning
Come and play your solid bluesA believer
A believer, believer, believer, believer
Then I might stop
Then I might stop playing pretendAnd if I could show you
My heaven Id wear my thorny crown
I walk the stairs of seven
I walk them down