

The Fish and the Bird

Mark Knopfler

When I gave my heart to a tinker boy
He said a fish could love a swallow
And I will go with my traveling man
Wherever he goes, I will follow
He will mend your pots and pans
Your kitchen knives hell take and sharpen
Then Ill be gone with my traveling man
And never more your doorway darken
The fish and the bird who fall in love
Will find no place to build a home in
The fish and the bird who fall in love
Are bound forever to go roaming
Bound forever to go roaming
