

Part IV (The Index Fossil) (Album Version)

Bad Religion

We're widespread and well fed
The earth's rotatin' fate is in our head, oh yeah We're dominant and prominent
And our deity's omnipotent, oh yeah And immortality's in our mastermind
And we destroy everything that we find
And tomorrow when the human clock stops and the world stops tickin'
We'll be an index fossil buried in our own debris We're listless, promiscuous
And life to us is either hit or miss, oh yeah We're savoir faire and debonair
And things we do are done with pride and care, oh yeah And immortality's in our mastermind
And we destroy everything that we find
And tomorrow when the human clock stops and the world stops tickin'
We'll be an index fossil buried in our own debris See immortality's in our mastermind
And we destroy everything that we find
And tomorrow when the human clock stops and the world stops tickin'
We'll be an index fossil buried in our own debris
In our own debris

Songwriters

Gregory Graffin Published by

WARNER-TAMERLANE PUBLISHING CORP.; POLYPTERUS MUSIC Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>